Did You Know?

Family Businesses Are Penalized

One example of how family businesses are at a disadvantage:

Imagine a typical American manufacturing company, family-owned business, with 25 employees. This company will likely pay 32% in income taxes, as an S-Corp. Yet, regular corporations will pay only 21%. Then, when one of the two owners dies unexpectedly $50 million in estate tax will due in 9 months. Money is borrowed, and stock is sold with the hope no employees will be terminated. Non-family businesses do not pay this estate tax, and they pay lower higher yearly taxes.

Why are family businesses penalized when they build their business for the future of their employees, community, and the family?

Join us in this fight to ease the tax burdens and other negative economic policies hurting family businesses.
